

GREENPEACE DIRECTOR OF MEMBERSHIP - Washington, DC

Greenpeace has a reputation for innovating, communicating creatively and getting things done. Since 1971 Greenpeace has been the leading voice of the environmental movement, standing up to powerful political and corporate interests whose policies put the planet at risk.

This mixture brings with it both risks and rewards, and we are looking for a dynamic, talented Director of Membership to manage all direct marketing efforts, including monthly giving, direct mail, telemarketing, retention, bridge and merchandise/licensing programs, and oversight of related vendors.

Greenpeace employees between 300 and 500 employees spread throughout the US working in campaigns, communications, actions, fundraising and administration.

We are looking for someone with a passion for fundraising and a commitment to the mission of Greenpeace. The successful candidate will have a proven track record in managing and growing a membership program in another non-profit.
