

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

Contact: Marcie Valerio, APRA Headquarters
(312) 673-5811 • mvalerio@APRAhome.org

APRA Announces New Board Members During Annual International Conference

CHICAGO, August 2009 — During its Annual Membership Meeting held in conjunction with the APRA 22nd Annual International Conference in Boston, Massachusetts, APRA announced the results of its 2009 board election. The ballot was the first since APRA adopted election changes that not only create a clearly defined path to leadership, but also provide increased continuity for APRA's board leadership. Officers begin their terms September 1, 2009.

APRA's 2009–2010 Board of Directors is:

President

Deborah Mueller, Director of Prospect Development–Campaign Operations at Minnesota Medical Foundation at the University of Minnesota

President-Elect

Rob Scott, Executive Director of Development at Massachusetts Institute of Technology

Treasurer

Michael Quevli, Consultant with Target Analytics, a Blackbaud Company

Secretary

Lisa Howley, Director of Relationship Management at Johns Hopkins Institutions

Immediate Past President

Elizabeth Crabtree, Director of Prospect Development at Brown University

Directors

Helen Brown, President of The Helen Brown Group LLC

Susan Faraone, Associate Vice President at Illinois Institute of Technology Institutional Advancement

Hodan Hassan, Director of Program Funding and Prospect Development for the U.S. Fund for UNICEF

Kelly Johnson, Managing Director of Advancement Services at the Hazelden Foundation

Deborah Reinhardt-Youmans, Director of Advancement Research for Le Moyne College

James Rygg, Senior Director of Development Research for City of Hope

Karen Stitsworth, Liaison to the President for Advancement and College Relations at St. Olaf College

Mark Your Calendar

APRA 23rd Annual International Conference

July 21–21, 2010 in Anaheim, California

Learn more about APRA and its numerous educational events at www.APRAhome.org.

###

About APRA

APRA is the premier international organization for professionals who specialize in fundraising research, analytics and relationship management. APRA is committed to providing leading-edge educational and networking opportunities, establishing and promoting high professional standards and ethical guidelines, and providing advocacy and a representative voice for the profession. Representing more than 2,000 fundraising professionals around the world in all types of nonprofit environments, APRA is the most diverse organization dedicated to the fundraising research professional.

The Resource for Fundraising Research, Analytics and Relationship Management
