

Research Analyst, Healthcare Practice

Witt/Kieffer is a top 10 Executive Search consulting firm and the largest specializing solely in senior executive placement at the nation's leading healthcare, academic medicine and higher education institutions. We are currently seeking a top-notch professional for our research department in our corporate office in Oak Brook.

The Research Analyst provides support in the development, execution and completion of search assignments and in the informational support of new business development. The Research Analyst will support a team of consultants by developing and managing a search strategy for each job; identifying candidate prospects; retrieving and analyzing data from relevant prior searches; finding and developing industry sources; and employing in-house library and external resources for gathering data on potential candidates, sources, industries, etc.

We require a college degree and prefer at least one year of work experience or work towards an advanced degree in business, healthcare or library science. The successful candidate must have strong project management skills, the ability to employ critical thinking and analysis, and proven success in creative problem solving. Candidates must be comfortable with using reference materials, databases, online services, and internet searching tools. Strong computer skills are necessary. Excellent analytical, organizational and communication skills along with a customer service orientation are essential.

We offer a competitive compensation and benefits package. If interested, please email your resume with salary requirements to:
